Make a Bigger Impact

Have you Herd? Marshall's Day of Giving, 1837 Minutes For Marshall, is a two-day opportunity to create a lasting impact at Marshall University by making an online gift. Gifts go farther, thanks to matches and challenges, and these investments support the entire university — help spread the word!

Become an Official Day of Giving Ambassador

As an official Ambassador, you will be the boots on the digital “ground,” inspiring others to give and get excited — including alumni, students, parents and all other Marshall supporters (aka Herd Nation!). You will foster the giving spirit by sharing personal messages about your experiences and the opportunities available at Marshall and encourage others to be Ambassadors and give back on Day of Giving. Bring a little friendly competition to your fundraising efforts!

Marshall traces its origin to 1837 when residents of the community of Guyandotte and the farming region nearby turned their attention to providing better educational facilities for their sons and daughters. According to tradition, they met at the home of local lawyer John Laidley, planned their school, and named it Marshall Academy in honor of a friend of Laidley's, the late Chief Justice of the United States John Marshall.
